

Mark Powers spent his childhood in Spring Lake. Mark is a graduate of Michigan State University and a certain law school in Ann Arbor that we will not discuss. After graduating law school, Mark spent seven loooooong years in Chicago practicing law, while his wife finished up her chemistry PhD at Northwestern. Mark eventually returned to Spring Lake and is still practicing law. Mark's wife is a biochemistry professor at Grand Valley. Mark has two children (both of whom are Spring Lake High School graduates, as well as Spartans), two dogs, and a lazy cat. Mark earned black belts in Korean martial arts over the decades (and now has the arthritis and dental repairs to prove it). You're likely to run into Mark at Marv's Bark Park (with Kedzie and Albert), the SL Fitness and Aquatic center weight room, or holding court at Stan's.
